INSIDE THIS ISSUE

1. Invitation to the project final conference
2. Conference and registration details

1. On March 30th 2022 join us for the final conference of the FYC project!

The final conference of the Future-proof your Career project offers a packed overview of current and future perspectives on the world of work and the importance of social and digital skills, especially after COVID-19. The main outcomes, lessons learnt and policy recommendations based on the project's findings will be presented to participants.

To open the conference, we will demonstrate how to use the innovative online FYC tool and follow up with a panel discussion by representatives from the project partnership. Next, we will welcome keynote speaker Prof. Dr. Werner Eichhorst, coordinator of European Labour Market and Social Policy at the Institute of Labour Economics, who will discuss policy aspects of the future of work.

In the second part of the conference participants will have the opportunity to choose a breakout room and learn more about aspects of the project that interest them.

The event is particularly relevant for labour market professionals, guidance practitioners, employment services and policy makers, as well as anyone else interested in deepening their understanding of the future world-of-work.

2. Conference and registration details

When: 30th March 2022 from 10.30am -13pm (CET)
